A Portland Maine paper tells the story of a marriage between a boy seventeen years old and a girl fifteen The father of the girl objected to the match and locked her up in her room to prevent the marriage "But, says the narrative Love recognized no locks or bars, and as the appointed hour for the wedding drew near the young lady jumped from her window It had been agreed that the couple should meet at the house of a justice of the peace and there be made one The young lady in question was promptly on hand at the appointed time and place and the ceremony was duly performed When the indignant father went to the room of his daughter to release her he found the room vacant and a note on the table saying that she was Mrs The father at once sent word to her that she need not return to his house It was probably unnecessary as the young couple are now living as happy as clams in high water all by themselves

The Carlists are evidently becoming desperate The outrages they are committing are a shame to civilization What we said a long time ago we say again Carlism is a crime against civilization, and should be suppressed by outside powers The Republic of Spain has long since been recognized by all the first-rate powers but Russia and there is no reason for tolerating any longer the proposals butcheries that have for months been practiced by the Carlist bandits If there were any ground to expect the enterprising guerrilla who heads the insurrection would be able to accomplish anything beyond the merely keeping up of a partisan warfare indefinitely and the devastation of the Spanish frontier it might be well to leave him and the Republic to fight it out but all prospect of any such result long ago disappeared and there ought to be an end to the needless effusion of blood

An Indianapolis special to the Republic, dated Oct 30th said

From all points along the lines of the railroads centering in this city come reports of forest fires and fires in the neighboring fields of greater or less magnitude But most numerous reports come from along the Indiana and St Louis Vandalia and Indiana and Bloomington and Western roads. A terrible conflagration of the woods in Hamilton county is reported sweeping over farms to the destruction of outbuildings granaries and fences and fully 6 000 persons are engaged in fighting the flames Between Muncie and Fort Wayne a perfect reign of terror exists, and in Henry county the crops have suffered severely The more northeasterly counties along the Ohio border are suffering fearfully and unless copious rains fall soon the damage will be immense, with probable heavy loss of life Nothing so disastrous as these fires has ever been known in the history of the State

MR DAWES PROPHESY

[From a Speech Delivered in Salem Mass.

Massachusetts is the citadel of the Republican party When you pierce that you pierce the citadel itself and the shout goes out from the enemy We have carried the fort" I understand what men who don't like me very well may say because I have come here to say this but I am acting under a solemn conviction of what is the duty of public men viz to keep an undivided unbroken delegation in Congress Throw away the House of Representatives and it is the entering wedge Throw that away and it dates the decline of power in the Republican party It is the history of all the administrations except that of Abraham Lincoln that have gone before the present one, and it will be the history of this administration if by any dereliction if by any dispension if by dislike or prejudice we shall fail in Massachusetts to present our unbroken front, we fail in the very seat of the power of the Republican party in that State which has furnished it brain and life and lead and throwing that away will I am as confident as I am of anything date its downfall

[From the New York Tribune.]

Well, the people read and ponder over such utterances as this They know that upon the confession of leading Republicans in and out of Congress there have been gross abuses and corrupt administration the remedy for which is to send Republicans to Congress who have conscience ability integrity who will not defend rascality for pay or prostitute place and power for selfish aggrandizement And they hear Mr Dawes advocating Butler's election because it is necessary to have an undivided front And turning it over calmly and thoughtfully—for they have plenty of time for it in these days of "prosperous government—they say "Upon the whole what pressing need is there of an undivided front" What good has come to the country from having so large a Republican majority in Congress? Has it not been rather demoralizing than otherwise? And if indeed it should happen that an opposition majority should organize the next House of Representatives, with a Republican Senate and Republican Administration how much of a calamity would even that be? Would it not be wise policy indeed to give the opposition an opportunity to inquire into the management of affairs for the past five or six years? If there's nothing to be discovered, they can do no harm If there is anything wrong it is a good time now to find it out The Government books have been kept by one party long enough Let us have them audited"

We believe this to be the line of thought of the average voter who has waited too long already for the Republican party to reform itself from the inside And he will vote against such men as Butler whether it breaks the front or crumbles the whole line And men of this class will be none the less Republicans for doing it—none the less ready to vote for any honest Republican who is nominated hereafter We take leave to differ with Mr Dawes Instead of signifying the decline of power in the Republican party it will date the beginning of its purification and of its entrance upon a higher mission in politics even than that which it has already fulfilled.

MULLETT

Everybody has heard of Mullett the Government Architect He has been cursed when ever a Government building has been erected The Superintendent of construction of public buildings curses him in the presence of the boss workmen and the boss workmen swear at him in the hearing of all the other employes What manner of man Mullett may be together with some of the circumstances that have made him a traveled individual is disclosed by Cr the Washington correspondent of the Pittsburgh Leader

Mullett the Government Architect used to go bowling over the country in the most bewildering way Now his sandy nearly bald head would pop up in St Louis and then the delighted inhabitants of San Francisco would catch a glimpse of the great little man During former summer seasons Mullett has always gone off three months upon Government business in visiting the various cities of the North During the years that he has held the position of Government Architect, he has traveled very little this season He has scarcely started out of Washington, and he has gone away only when he has been really obliged to Why all this change? every one has asked His Mullett become entirely blase to the delights of his country? or what is the matter? I have too been interested in the subject enough to make inquiries about it and have asked some of Mullett's intimates about it At first it was accounted for upon the ground of his experiencing religion and his consequent desire to resist the temptations that surround a man when away from home But the real reason it appears is that a change has been made in the matter of paying his expenses While away on trips for the benefit of his suffering country, he used to receive a handsome mileage which brought him in a good income above all traveling expenses The more he traveled the greater his income. Now he is only paid for his actual traveling expenses and he has to swear to his accounts besides These accounts are closely examined and all small luxuries like baths hack hire cocktails and cigars are thrown out Mullett receives a salary of $5 000 and in the good old days of mileage use to travel enough to bring up his income to $8 000 and $10 000 Since he has been placed under the system of actual expenses only being paid while traveling his passion for traveling has materially subsided.

I have it from the authority of one of the architects in the office, that Mullett has only a general idea of architecture and is very ignorant of the technics of the art He will come into a room in his office and give special orders to subordinates about designs which are never obeyed All the designs in the office are made by the leading architects of the office, and Mullett directs in the same way that a private gentleman would if he were directing an architect in building something for his own use In one way Mullett is valuable He is an extremely good business man, and very simple in his tastes His simplicity of taste checks in many instances the too florid style of some of the leading designs He has some 5 000 men under him and manages the affairs of the office very well Though it is said the office gets along best when he is away upon some of his long trips

There has been some considerable talk at various times about the corruption of Mullett Well if he is corrupt beyond his old style of making all he could out of his mileage, it does not appear on the surface In appearance he is quite poor, and is nearly always involved in small pecuniary troubles, showing that he can't well or badly he manages the affairs of the government, he very evidently has no head for his own Everyone who has direct connection with him gives him the general reputation of being honest Well, he may be but he is not near so fond of traveling as he used to be.

James Fahey fell off a barrel at the Woolen Mills Salem last Thursday, and broke his leg whereupon the Statesman says: "Thus again we are called upon to chronicle a painful accident whereby a fellow being is temporarily deprived of the use of a bodily member"

ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC FREIGHT AND FARE RATES

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company deserve the gratitude of the people of this coast for declining to enter into the arrangement proposed on behalf of the overland railway companies That arrangement would placel this entire coast at the mercy of the Union and Central Pacific Companies and there is abundant ground in the past history of the proceedings of those companies for asserting that the exercise of their power would be tempered with moderation no further than their own interests might seem to require Although the memorandum of the proposed terms sent to the directors of the Pacific Mail by Huntington, Vice President and Manager of the Central Pacific has been given to our readers in the telegraphic column, we reproduce it here in order that its various points may be subjected to critical analysis

First—Passenger rates on all classes between New York and San Francisco both east and west, to be the same on both lines and the same mission to be allowed agents by either party Prices should be low for the reason that both lines are interested in increasing the population of the West coast and low rates for passengers between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts will have an important influence in securing that result

Second—That while owners of steamboats and railroads should and of right ought to control their own property they should be required as far as practicable in the interest of the public and therefore, while I would not think it well for the companies neither do I think the public would wish that business should be done at the very low rates that it has been done for the last few months and while in my opinion it would not be good policy to put rates back to what they were before this opposition between the two lines had forced prices down to present unremunerative rates still I would much like an arrangement whereby the lines could work in harmony and so obtain fair rates I would agree in such a settlement that our railroad company should guarantee to your company 818 000 per steamer out of this port, each steamer to take and railroad companies agree to furnish 800 tons of freight

Third—The old contract between the Pacific Mail Steamship Co and C P R R Co in regard to the China and Japan business to be renewed and as a guarantee that this contract shall be carried out the Pacific Mail S — ship Co. are to give security to the railroad companies. This is noted because the other contract was not complied with by the Pacific Mail Steamship Co

Fourth—The Union and Central Pacific Railroad Companies are to make and control all rates between New York and San Francisco

Fifth—This contract is to be for ten years

In order that the mind may take in the whole situation as the reader proceeds, we call attention first to that which is last in the 'memorandum,' namely, that the arrangement is to stand for ten years

The first subdivision looks fair enough The interests of the immediate parties to this contract are represented as identical with those of the people of this coast, on the question of passenger rates, and therefore low rates must rule till the Pacific States are filled with people But what rates are considered low? And what will be thought low rates five or six years hence?

But the next paragraph has a different sound The public, it is asserted, do not wish to have the carrying business done at as low rates as have prevailed for the last few months Why not? We have no recollection of hearing much complaint by the public that they got their carrying at too low rates Low rates of freight are just what the people do want, just what they need, just what they must have as a condition of prosperity True, it is not desirable to have rates put down to a point that will destroy the roads, but there is not the slightest danger of that The Central Pacific running two thirds of its length through an uninhabitable desert, pays interest on an immense over issue of bonded indebtedness, and dividends on a fictitious capital in the shape of stock certificates, which is also immense Until rates come down to the minimum that will pay expenses and a reasonable interest on the actual cost of the roads, they will not come down to where the people have a right to demand they shall remain But the proposition of the railway companies to the steamship company amounts to an offer of a subsidy of $18,000 for each steamer's voyage, as a consideration for the vesting in the railway companies, as specified in the fourth subdivision, of the exclusive right to fix all rates between the Atlantic and Pacific coast Where would all this subsidy, amounting to $30 000 per month, come from? It would be extorted from the people by fixing rates sufficient to produce that amount in addition to what the railway companies want for themselves The disguise of furnishing freight' to that amount is too thin to deceive anybody who possesses an ounce of common sense

[illegible] ington is, for the two railway companies and the Steamship Company to form a [illegible] for the purpose of co-operating, with the almost unlimited capital and patronage at their command, to squeeze out of the Pacific coast the last cent that freights will bear, whether carried by rail, or by the naturally cheaper means afforded by ocean navigation Let us hope the Steamship Company will still refuse to listen to such a proposition

THE ALLIANCE OF THE RING ORGANS

The Mercury, Gov Grover's recognized organ, joins the Bulletin in defending Cornelius for his misfeasance by which he choked the important amendment to the corporation law. This was to be expected The Governor could find no defenders outside the ring paper of this city, and his own organ, and of course that is bound enough to eat them billing and cooing But the Mercury after saying the Senate adjourned at the hour designated in the joint resolution, says in the very same breath, that the Senate clock was several minutes faster than the House clock That is good. How correct so? But we will add, for the edification of the Mercury, and whomsoever else it may concern, that just before the adjournment of the Senate, Senator W W. Bristow, a brother of the editor of the Mercury, and a man who seldom fails to see his duty and never flinches from doing it when seen, left his desk and walked up to the President's desk, and, holding up his watch, opened, called the particular attention of the President, Cornelius to the fact that the Senate clock was set forward, and that his watch was exactly with the House clock and added that he had just compared it with Haas chronometer and it was absolutely correct" He then reminded the President of the unsigned bills that he had went for naught As we have [illegible] before the attention of the President was called to those bills by Senator VanCleave also but all to no purpose The Bulletin and the Mercury and all the rest of the organs of the two party rings may cudgel their brains from now till Christmas to find a defense for Cornelius and Grover; they will only make themselves ridiculous De fense or excuse there is none for Cornelius; justification there is none for Governor Grover, though there may be an excuse he is not bad, he is only weak

COPYING WITHOUT CREDIT

A friend has called our attention to the fact that a part of an article which appeared in this paper some time ago on the subject of Railroad Legislation Freights and Fares or something like that we forget what was copied from the Nation We are very well aware of the fact and inadvertently neglected to give the paper credit We regret that we have but a limited part of the day to give to the paper, and in that time we probably furnish as much original matter as any one else could But that furnishes no reason for appropriating the composition of others without credit —Bulletin of yesterday

We never doubted that the Bulletin's bragging of the last few days would in due time turn into whining, but we scarcely expected our prediction to be fulfilled so soon Instead of the indecorous boasting about the amount of fresh original matter he furnished, which characterized the writing of the editor of the Bulletin only two days ago he is now on his marrow bones begging the pardon of his readers for the shabby appearance of his paper and the thefts he commits to make it such as it is, on the ground that he has not time to attend to it, being so much occupied with other business A more humiliating let-down than this we do not recollect ever to have witnessed even if we take his statement for the exact truth The enterprising, "fresh," and immense ly prosperous Bulletin can't afford to pay a man to do its editorial work, and must needs rely upon such supply as it can pick up from day to day from the various employees of Holladay and the Custom House Now Mr J Gaston devotes to it what time he can spare from his duties as Secretary and agent of Holladay's west side road now H W Scott Collector of Customs, is on for a few days as a "sub" while Gaston takes a run up the valley and now it "runs itself" a day or two, on extracts from Eastern journals and news items taken from the OREGONIAN and other papers of the previous week And to this exposure and confession all its gasconade comes at last Its editor "teaches school and boards round, and steals matter for the paper during recess and before breakfast All recollect the loud talk and melancholy end of that other 'fresh' paper, the Portland Herald

Coming events cast their shadows before

'A friend has called our attention to the fact" Alter, the too unobservant The particular theft specified was committed Saturday, October 24th, and the OREGONIAN called your attention to it on the following Monday morning Is not this rather a tardy recognition of the demands of honesty?

Inadvertently neglected to give the paper credit.' Inadvertently" No you don't Not much Beg your pardon, but you don't get off that way The plea of inadvertency has saved many a rogue, but it won't work every time There are circumstances in this case that can't be made to tally with such a plea There was a deliberate attempt to conceal the theft by rearranging the wording of the opening paragraph of the stolen article Look at this, and say again, in the face of this community, it was inadvertency

The great function it discharges toward modern society and the one which has produced the most striking industrial results, is the equalization of distances and prices. By a great series of [illegible] the remote sections of the country into the most valuable and important thing it has done for the world is the putting of producer and consumer side by side in the presence of the market [illegible] away on an equality with those who live near by [illegible] It has absolutely annihilated the West into existence by enabling the [illegible] and Wisconsin farmer to sell in New York and Liverpool at as low rates as the Pennsylvania or English farmer, and this result has been achieved solely by the discrimination which seems on the surface to be the enraged and ill informed farmer to be unjust, but which is in reality both wise and just.

The great function which a railroad discharges to the people and the one which has produced the most striking results is the equalization of distances The locomotive called the great active west into existence and made it what it is to-day, and against the farmers of Pennsylvania, Maryland and the New England States No man could send a bushel of grain from the heart of Illinois over or any other Western State if the wide charging principle in Pennsylvania and New York

Further along, the exact wording of the Nation's article is adopted in the Bulletin's except that the tense of one verb is carefully changed to make it suit the Bulletin's purposes—a thing that could never occur "inadvertently" Then, toward the close of the article, which is the leading editorial of the Bulletin, the necessity for hiding the stolen property again fills the mind of the culprit, and he seeks to accomplish that object by the same clumsy artifice as at the opening Thus we have

[From the Nation's Editorial.]

So that after brushing away all the rant about loads of indebtedness, watered stock greedy speculators impoverished farmers, grinding taxation we get at the naked truth of the whole matter, which is the money used in Western railroad building is [illegible] had owing to the risky nature of the enterprise, the bonds were sold to the people of a speculative turn at a very heavy discount.

[From the Bulletin's Editorial.]

So that after shutting our ears to all the din about greedy speculators impoverished farmers and grinding monopolists and digging down to the bottom and impartially weighing the whole matter we find the naked truth in every railroad building [illegible] out of every ten railroads built in this country to be that the money used in their construction had on account of the risky nature of the enterprise to be borrowed at a heavy discount from people of a speculative turn of mind

'Inadvertently neglected' to give credit! We should say so! The defense is only less contemptible than the crime, especially since it was not made till after exposure had come

Now we are going to give you a little friendly advice, Joseph and we don't want you to take offense at it First—Don't purloin other people's property Second—If you are a kleptomaniac or in such straitened circumstances you can't help stealing, try not to get caught at it Third—But if you do get caught, don't try to clear yourself by telling a fib Fourth—But if you can't resist the temptation to tell an untruth, don't rely on so transparent a one as that which you resorted to in this case

Just before the election pools sold at the New York pool rooms as follows That Tilden would beat Dix 20 000 votes yes $100 no $175, that Tilden would beat Dix 10 000 votes yes $100 no $80 that Tilden would carry the State yes $100 no $400 Somebody got used up of the majority pools

They are suppressing newspapers in Buenos Ayres because they say the wrong thing about the rebellion

WE GIVE HIM TO!

Our readers will remember that some days since we stated that we had been informed that Secretary Chadwick interfered to dissuade Governor Grover from signing the bills clocked by Col Cornelius and that shortly afterwards we stated we had received from Secretary Chadwick a letter to the effect that such information was wholly unfounded, as he had never spoken with the Governor upon the subject We supposed that correction was all that the case required, and we made it cheerfully even gladly for we wish to do no one an injustice But the Secretary expected something different He had seized the occasion of our misinformation and our known willingness to correct any such mistake, to prepare an elaborate letter in which the requisite denial was but the smallest part, and the large part was a puff of himself after the style of the patent medicine quacks As this part of his letter had no connection with any matter we had mentioned, and we did not fell called upon to do any gratuitous advertising for Mr Chadwick, we simply made editorially the correction of our previous remarks, as above indicated, without publishing the Secretary's advertisement. He was disappointed at receiving just what he was entitled to and nothing more and so flushed to the Mercury with a copy of his production, and it appears in that paper with a world of nice comments written around it It must be extremely gratifying to the consequential little Secretary to see himself got out in such gorgeous style and such profuseness of illustration And then to feel that it is every bit his own work! We offer him our congratulations, and hope it may do him a power of good Chadwick ought by no means to be discouraged Wonders have been worked sometimes by persistent and 'loud" advertising

The Republic says a sentiment against the use of money in elections has taken a strong hold in the State of New York An organization has been effected for the purpose of detecting and bringing to justice all persons who attempt to influence votes with money and branch organizations are established in many of the interior counties When that sentiment shall become so strong as to make it a disgrace to any man to propose the use of money for such purposes the most dangerous evil that has found lodgment in the Republican party will have disappeared

It would not be at all surprising if our inadvertently fresh contemporary, which boasts of being run by a man and a boy—the boy doing the work and the man the stealing—should conclude never to commence throwing stones again

From the Republic of Nov 1 we learn that at the election which was to take place on the 3d Gen Bux was pretty sure to beat Tilden very badly We are sorry to say the telegraphic accounts of the occurrence do not put us just that way

CENTRAL SCHOOL.

Accompanied by Prof J W King City Superintendent, we visited Central School yesterday forenoon for the purpose of witnessing the regular exercises of the pupils in the various departments As usual we found system perfect discipline and strict decorum observed in every department of the school One cannot pass through the different grades arranged under the same roof without being thoroughly impressed with the thorough competency of the corps of instructors and the studiousness of the pupils From the smallest classes—ranging in age from 5 to 8 years—to the largest where the pupils are well advanced in their teens we observed the same lively interest manifested to learn, and the same studious application Perfect system has been inaugurated, and every class goes forward as smoothly as clock work Each teacher knows exactly what to do, as the pupils are so carefully and thoroughly graded according to individual advancement and qualification and he or she takes a pride in leading forward the youthful mind in the paths of knowledge As conducted now, this school is an ornament to the city and the system pursued is such as to result in the greatest possible advancement of the young Passing from room to room we could not help observing the perfect harmony which seemed to exist between teacher and pupil—one so ready to receive instruction and the other so willing to impart it. There is no clashing of authority between teachers each one moves forward in the regular channel by a sort of mutual understanding Authority is enforced not by resorting to angry words or blows but by gentle but firm measures Corporal punishment as almost entirely banished from the room, its infliction being of extremely rare occurrence and then only as the last alternative The teachers are not invested with terrors to the youthful mind but the mutual relations are those of friends In no instance did we observe the slightest disobedience to the requests of the teacher, or the least want of respect on the part of the pupil The pupils are not drilled in a dull monotonous routine of some and uninteresting, but the branches are so diversified and varied and presented to the mind in such attractive forms, that the pupils experience pleasure in mental application and pass from one exercise to another with keen relish

AMUSEMENTS.

Another large audience was present last evening at the Museum Hall to witness the excellent performance given there This afternoon there is to be a grand matinee performance at 2 o'clock expressly for the ladies and children The admission will be reduced to half rates Besides an excellent performance a number of prizes will be distributed Every child who attends will receive a present This evening the last performance will be given Do not fail to go and see the Royal Marrionettes Dr Haskell's wonderful ventriloquism Clara Harlinge, the child mind-reader, and hear Professor Steele in a number of new songs

Rip Van Winkle was produced last evening at Oro Fino Theater to a crowded house This is the first time the great play, as personated by Joe Jefferson was ever rendered in the city The play was admirably cast and the manner of its rendition faultless even in minute detail Mr J Al Sawtelle the talented young artiste, appeared in the title role. He acquitted himself in a manner which has placed his reputation as an actor of no ordinary power in Portland beyond a peradventure His personation of Rip while it was not up to the standard of Jefferson, a fine specimen of finished acting He possesses a fine well modulated voice and a good stage presence in his rendering of the character, Mr Sawtelle was very efficiently supported by Mrs F M Phelps who sustained the role of the termagant Gretchen in the lady's usual finished style Little Vivia Sawtelle played in the first part of the drama Meenie, in a very cunning artless manner This little actress will doubtless be a great favorite with the public The other and more subordinate characters of the play were sustained in a creditable manner by Miss Morgan as Meenie after the second act E J Crowell as Derrick Van Slaus, Jas Barrows as Hermann W J Gunning as Vedder in the third act, and Miss E. A Brady the same character as in the first act Want of space precludes a more extended notice in this issue. This afternoon a grand matinee performance will be given Admission, half-price to all parts of the house. The play of last evening will be repeated To night Rip Van Winkle will be repeated for the last time To one and all we say do not fail to see the play It is well worth the money

PAUSE WHILE YOU READ THIS The season for parties and balls has arrived and the cold dreary days and nights of winter will soon visit us Every young man old man and boy for that matter likes to present a neat appearance when attending parties the theater or walking about the streets They like wise desire to be well provided against the cold blasts of snow and rain What contributes more to the personal appearance and comfort of a gentleman or boy than a nice comfy fitting suit of clothes to roll with a heavy warm overcoat? Why will any one be so foolish as to go without either when BECK & WALDMAN have everything in that line. Beck & Waldman in laying in their immense fall and winter stock of clothing have exercised great care and selected with reference to the demand of the trade They have purchased their goods low and are determined not to be undersold Let the public note this fact

The following communication was read before the Grand Encampment C R C, which has just closed its labors in this city

To the Officers and Members of the Grand Encampment C R C—Dear Sirs I see by the reports of your proceedings that a committee of three has been appointed to confer with a like committee on the part of the I C R C in regard to union,

Severe illness in my family prevents my attendance at Portland at this time as I had intended in accordance with the suggestions of an esteemed friend in your ranks I should have been very glad to exchange ideas with your members and on behalf of our Grand Executive Committee counsel with you in regard to this important measure but at the best nothing could be done immediately more than to establish a better understanding of each other and better mutual relations

Speaking for myself, and knowing that I reflect the views of many of our members, I can say that it seems to me that every lover of his race who knows anything of either Order must long for some way to unite all the true men and women who have taken our obligation under a common banner, as I believe we now have a common aim, and a very similar course of action

No matter what may be the history of the division in the ranks no matter for personal grievances, and still less for personal feelings in this cause the fact is patent to all that our Encampments cannot accomplish half their work while they are cut off from communication with each other and separated by causes that we do not understand ourselves, much less are able to explain to the uninitiated We seem to the enemy to be worse than we really are, for while we are to all intents and purposes two separate and distinct bodies, I firmly believe that nothing but formalities keep us apart, and he who can devise a fair and effective plan of uniting our forces will be a public benefactor of the human race.

Our Grand Encampment meets next May, and certainly at that time a committee will be appointed to meet with yours Permit me to suggest that those committees should be clothed with as full powers as may be legal and expedient Also the Order in Idaho, where we have many fine Encampments with a strong Grand Encampment and a membership approaching 2,000, should be taken into consideration Nevada too has a Grand Encampment, I C R C or will have very soon

Would it be possible for your Grand Encampment to meet at the same time and place that ours does? Or can you authorize your Executive Committee to take decisive action at that time if they think best so to do? I merely suggest this as a member of the I C R C and of this Grand Executive Committee and as one who has learned by observation to respect your membership as true temperance brethren, and your organization as a body of faithful men and women bound together by mutual obligations to overthrow the usurpation of strong drink and to exercise those virtues by which we may all be made happier in doing good to our fellow men and I take the liberty of adding that I feel this to be the sentiment of our Order throughout this jurisdiction We believe you are doing a good work, we know that we are trying to do the same, and flatter ourselves that some hearts are lighter and some minds are brighter and some heart-strings are encircled by a happier band by reason of our work during the past year

We bid the Champions of the Red Cross "God-speed," and speed the day when all who have taken our obligation shall unite in common council, and when an unbroken front shall insure to us a glorious victory

Yours for the cause of humanity
T B HANDLEY,
Grand Coun I C R C

The Queen of the Iceni a people of Britain at the head of an army attacked their Roman invaders during the first century of the Christian era reduced London to ashes and put seventy thousand people to the sword She is described as one of the most beautiful women and a prototype of female patriots She wore her long yellow hair floating in the wind and a spiral gold torque on her neck. The use of Tobacco aggravates dyspepsia. It destroys the tone of the stomach and weakens the gastric juices which reduce the food to chyle and prepare it for the nutrition of the body Experience shows that a discontinuance of the use of tobacco and the regular employment of PLANTATION BITTERS will restore the vitality to the enfeebled organs, and health will ensue.

SATURDAY MORNING NOV. 14, 1874.

A TAVE OF THE FAR WEST

A pale wraith greeted Mr Martyn's eyes as he threw open the door leading to the apartment serving as kitchen dining and sitting room in one, on this very cold night in mid winter A bright fire crackled and sparkled in the wide chimney place the kettle sang a merry tune all to itself to which a demure grimalkin nodded grave approvals A round table drawn to the centre of the floor with snowy cover and neat appointments bore in the red light thrown by the logs in the grate the last evidences of a hearty supper But there was evidently something wanting to complete its comfort for the master of the household expectantly around as he walk d to ward the fire.

Where's Maggie he asked finally throwing down a bundle of frost crusted wood on the hearth

She has gone off with Arthur Tracy to Sanville, answered his wife, mentioning a village several miles to the west "He had some business to transact and asked her to go with Tracy" repeated the husband in a tone of surprise and annoyance I thought Harry was coming here to night

I believe she decided to go with Arthur girls are changeable you know," returned the wife

Girls are fools" added Mr Martyn, administering a vigorous kick to the huge back log by way of emphasis sending a shower of red sparks up the chimney

Bear in mind Janet he exclaimed turning angrily towards his wife Maggie will play her tricks once too often Harry Nelson is as fine a young fellow as ever stepped in shoe leather and if she offends him she'll rue the day she did it

Mrs Martyn sighed as she took her place at the tea table Mother's love is ever ready with an excuse, and in this instance responded as follows Living in a lonely unfre mere settlement, with no society save such as the rude settlers could give them though she appreciating the worth of Harry Nelson still could not blame Maggie for being a little dazzled by the polished exterior of the hand some city lawyer

Mr Martyn finished his supper in silence, but anxiety soon took the place of anger in his heart

Did you caution Maggie about coming house before dark?" he asked

Yes it is time for her to be here now" returned his wife glancing uneasily at the clock which was on

And they have two stretches of woodland to pass through" he muttered looking gloomily out on the fast gathering night

The mother's heart sank, she understood the ominous meaning conveyed by his words

Many parties lingering beyond daylight in a pleasure ride had never returned the stained snow with scattered fragments of torn clothing told of their fearful fate, and of the revenge of the forests—the wolves The hours passed heavily Six—seven—eight—and still no signs of their return

At last, unable to bear his agony any longer Mr Martyn went out in quest of Harry, and with him to devise some relief

Meanwhile, the hours passing so wearily to the parents flew by lad in with gay enjoyment to Maggie and her companion With a pardonable vanity in her stylish escort, she ex

to whom Tracy wholly ignorant of the dangers of a Western life politely assented The Sun was far in the west when the last adieu was spoken the last farewell exchanged and the ride home commenced in the sleigh and pair

Before they had gone two miles the day was entirely gone and the moon shone brightly over the wide expanse of snow Maggie closed her eyes with a thrill of terror as they passed rapidly through the first stretch of woods

Nothing appeared to confirm her fears, and she began to hope they would reach home in safety

Tracy broke the silence by exclaiming "This is the best part of the ride, isn't it Miss Maggie" bending a glance of admiration on her fresh blonde beauty

Startled from her reverie she joined in his merry conversation, while her thoughts made an undue accompaniment to the sledge music in words of her father the evening previous "These clear cold nights are just the ones for the wolves" Suddenly to badinage and repartee came a fearful interlude, a long low cry—at first a howl then dying away into a prolonged, mourning wail—a sound once heard never forgotten

Maggie had repeatedly heard it when the wolves pressed by sore hunger ventured within the limits of the settlement At such times she would cover her head, and trembling with fear, pray that she or any loved one, might never be exposed to such a death

And now a faint moan of anguish escaped her lips Tracy turned to her in surprise

Why what is the matter" he cried, seeing her pale and affrighted features

She endeavored to speak but her voice failed her Then as the death cry arose again on the still night air with the strength of desperation she almost she cried "Drive for her life faster Don't you hear them? The wolves

But as if in doubt, he reined in the horses to listen

And that is the wolves, is it?" he added quietly

Maggie bowed slightly

His face grew as white as the snow about him in an instant and grasping her arm sternly his politeness vanishing with only the instinct of preservation remaining he cried

And you knew of this danger and yet persuaded me to remain so long in the cursed village, Now listen, be composed, with fiend ish deliberation I will drive fast—make every effort to escape, but if it comes to the worst and it is impossible for both to be saved you shall go and rightly, too, for not warning me"

He grasped the reins and urged the horses on, and as they sped rapidly over the snow Maggie sat dumb and motionless with terror Only the sledge-bells and every now and then broke the stillness She began to hope they had been deceived or the wolves had lost the scent, when a hundred fiends

away roused her from her apathy, and drove Tracy almost into a frenzy He cast the reins violently from him and sprang from the sledge, giving the horses as he did so a hearty hair whip, that sent them yards away from where he was standing

Maggie comprehended dimly that he would take to a tree for safety Then her own dangerous situation required all her attention

And now the courage of a Western woman, inured to hardships and dangers of all kinds, asserted its existence She wound the reins tightly around her slender hands, and drew the horses in for a brief and hurried moment, and then with loud cries of encouragement to the frightened animals, giving them due praise in having so nobly saved their fair charge and themselves from a fearful death

Harry and Mr Martyn came out of the village in time to see the danger, and the poor girl's terror had deafened her to the shots fired in her defense However she soon rallied sufficiently to tell of her own thoughtlessness that had so nearly cost her her life and of Tracy's desertion

More than one brow grew dark at its recital and hard hands were clenched in rage

They had no opportunity to avenge it however for Arthur Tracy was never seen in the neighborhood again and only a note sent to the inn, requesting the return of his trunk told of his safety

Thus adventure effectually cleared the dazzle of gold from Maggie's eyes and when the roses of the little low house opened their first buds in the early Summer Maggie became Mrs. Henry Nelson and if there is any type out of all the storthoroughly dislikes being reminded it is the "brave companion of her ride for life

Latest Liverpool advices denote quiet market Pacific coast wheat ranged from 9s 10½d to 10s 4d for average and 10s 4d to 10s 10d for club per cental The London market is quoted at 45s 6d per quarter for average quality just shipped and 43s per quarter for average nearly due at Queenstown

In our local money marke to day there has been nothing new or important transpiring The prospect of a number of grain vessels being near at hand to load leads to the belief that the demand upon the available funds in the market by grain buyers will continue to absorb the surplus Aside from this demand however there is no special inquiry for money at present, prudently because the general dullness in trade at this time deters men from investing largely in business enterprises

The Gazette Financier of the German Empire, has just published the bill relative to the circulation of bank not which is to be submitted to Parliament in the next session There exist in Germany a considerable number of institutions of credit duly organized and regularly constituted, which have assumed an extraordinary development since 1866 and put in circulation an enormous mass of paper which their specie reserves are far from covering Several of these establishments from the Bank of Prussia, down to those of the petty States are connected with the Government by reciprocal relations The circulation of the notes of the first named for example, which in 1866, was only 160 000,000 of marcs has been increased to nearly 700 000 000 in the years 1871 to 1872 so that it has quintupled in the interval of 16 years For some time past public opinion has been demanding a reform of the paper system and notably the unification of national credit by means of a Bank of the Empire like those of France and England The Imperial Government has not consented or perhaps has not dared to go so far the new project allows the diversity of banks to subsist, but reduces to less than one-third the present amount of the notes more over it subjects to a precise legislation those institutions now exempted to rules of perfious elasticity The bill besides, lays a tax on the excess of paper circulation not covered by the reserve in specie

Miscellaneous.

A buoy has just been placed on Noonday Rock situated about five miles to the northwest of Farallone Islands, off San Francisco harbor and which has been a dangerous impediment in the path of ships going in and coming out After much trouble a buoy was placed over it and a report made to the Engineer corps, who will at once commence operations for its removal in the same manner that Col Von Schmidt removed Bloomer Rock Several years ago the ship Noonday was totally wrecked on the sunken rock from whence it derives its name. Several other vessels have since struck it and were more or less seriously injured

A Richmond tobacco house lately had returned to them by their agents in England two hogsheads of tobacco which was pronounced by the Government analysis as being too sweet for consumption under the law governing the manufacture and sale of tobacco in that country It contained according to analysis 12½ per cent of sugar

The 1st of July opened up the market for lard and pork in Chicago and it is reported that there has been over 100 000 bbls of pork sold there at prices ranging from $14 25 to $18 25 About 70 000 tes lard has also been sold at from 9c to 11 3/4c Of meats 2 000 boxes are reported sold on private terms, and packers are not offering freely This is a great advance on last year for lard and pork but less for meat, although last years prices on meats were smaller

The total coffee crop in all the producing countries for 1874 is set down at 9 000 000 cwt, and the assumption that there will be no scarcity in any of the markets of the world is considered good grounds for expecting a speedy decline in prices

A San Francisco paper of Nov 5th says The export trade in Salmon continues large Of late free consignments were made instead of sales many persons declining to sell at current rates, preferring the chances of foreign marts The bark Scotch for Hamburg, cleared on Monday with 13?0 cs The export during the past month aggregated only 9 268 cs including 6 143 cs for Liverpool and 1 460 for Australia The trade in Oregon salmon has increased wonderfully this season Of cases received in 9 months of 1874 there are 261 551 cs against 92 942 cs in 1873 of bbls 5 349 and 22 896 hf bbls against 3 125 bbls and 8 022 hf bbls in 1873 It should be stated that there was a larger proportion of 1 lb cans put up than in 1873 but that each case holds 4 doz as against 2 doz in a case of 2lb tins

Produce Market.

There has been a very quiet state of affairs prevailing in this department to-day and prices are generally as given in our last. Wheat is yet coming forward freely but of late ing this point how ever is to arrival, at what amounts to $1 85@1 87½ per cental in this market The vessels now loading here are the Harrington Andermere, City Canso and Ona. The City of Dublin is completing her cargo which consists of flour at Astoria. The Wolfert and Roslin Castle will begin to load flour as will the Neuchatel and Valparaiso

The demand for oats continues to have ed a little and the supply is ample for the trade sacked which holders are willing to accept Potatoes and apples are abundant and very dull so are chickens and game. Choice butter bacon, lard and eggs are in brisk demand at the advanced figures given in our last. Other products without fluctuation
